Dear Dr. Jagan,

thank

I want to ~~thank~~ you again for your contribution to the success of the student conference in East Chicago Wednesday evening of last week. As you probably were not aware, Mr. Bolton and I visited all the round tables in the course of the hour discussion and I must say that the ones in which you and Mr. Manat participated progressed more smoothly and with that added touch of expertness which real knowledge gives. For all the time which you so generously gave to this enterprise, I do hope that you yourself had some feeling of satisfaction in what must have been accomplished. You may realize, even more from this experience, that any contribution toward disseminating information about the Orient is vitally needed and I am sure that you also think, as we do, that the mere fact of such a discussion being held among students so young and in an area such as East Chicago is vastly encouraging for the future of the great and all-important settlement of the problems of the Pacific. You can also realize how much more knowledge is needed. But we hope these conferences create interest which will be continuing both with students and teachers and will stimulate thinking that may have some definite and salutary outcomes in pressure for more enlightened political action.

I should like to put your name on the list of those invited to our forthcoming teachers' seminar. And if you know of any other persons from the Pacific area who would be interested in these lectures, I would appreciate having their names.

Thanking you again for your time and effort on Wednesday, I am

Sincerely yours,
Beatrice Chapman
