Celebrating another birthday at Freedom House.

An anatomy of electoral fraud in Guyana in February 1986.

Dr. Jagan along with other PPP members protesting the rigging of the 1985 General Elections by the PNC. On this topic he wrote:

"So far as we in the PPP are concerned, the struggle is waged on several fronts: national, against PNC-minority government, authoritarian military/police and bureaucratic/administrative methods of rule, political and racial discrimination, corruption and extravagance, and for a better life for the Guianese people: international, against imperialist domination and exploitation and for peaceful coexistence, détente, non-violence, non-aggression, and for a better life for all people everywhere."

Cheddi Jagan 1987 during a visit to Mongolia.

Dr. Jagan along with other PPP members protesting the rigging of the 1985 General Elections by the PNC. On this topic he wrote:

"So far as we in the PPP are concerned, the struggle is waged on several fronts: national, against PNC-minority government, authoritarian military/police and bureaucratic/administrative methods of rule, political and racial discrimination, corruption and extravagance, and for a better life for the Guianese people: international, against imperialist domination and exploitation and for peaceful coexistence, détente, non-violence, non-aggression, and for a better life for all people everywhere."

Cheddi Jagan 1987 during a visit to Mongolia.

Dr. Jagan along with other PPP members protesting the rigging of the 1985 General Elections by the PNC. On this topic he wrote:

"So far as we in the PPP are concerned, the struggle is waged on several fronts: national, against PNC-minority government, authoritarian military/police and bureaucratic/administrative methods of rule, political and racial discrimination, corruption and extravagance, and for a better life for the Guianese people: international, against imperialist domination and exploitation and for peaceful coexistence, détente, non-violence, non-aggression, and for a better life for all people everywhere."

Cheddi Jagan 1987 during a visit to Mongolia.

Dr. Jagan along with other PPP members protesting the rigging of the 1985 General Elections by the PNC. On this topic he wrote:

"So far as we in the PPP are concerned, the struggle is waged on several fronts: national, against PNC-minority government, authoritarian military/police and bureaucratic/administrative methods of rule, political and racial discrimination, corruption and extravagance, and for a better life for the Guianese people: international, against imperialist domination and exploitation and for peaceful coexistence, détente, non-violence, non-aggression, and for a better life for all people everywhere."

Cheddi Jagan 1987 during a visit to Mongolia.

Dr. Jagan along with other PPP members protesting the rigging of the 1985 General Elections by the PNC. On this topic he wrote:

"So far as we in the PPP are concerned, the struggle is waged on several fronts: national, against PNC-minority government, authoritarian military/police and bureaucratic/administrative methods of rule, political and racial discrimination, corruption and extravagance, and for a better life for the Guianese people: international, against imperialist domination and exploitation and for peaceful coexistence, détente, non-violence, non-aggression, and for a better life for all people everywhere."

Cheddi Jagan 1987 during a visit to Mongolia.

Dr. Jagan along with other PPP members protesting the rigging of the 1985 General Elections by the PNC. On this topic he wrote:

"So far as we in the PPP are concerned, the struggle is waged on several fronts: national, against PNC-minority government, authoritarian military/police and bureaucratic/administrative methods of rule, political and racial discrimination, corruption and extravagance, and for a better life for the Guianese people: international, against imperialist domination and exploitation and for peaceful coexistence, détente, non-violence, non-aggression, and for a better life for all people everywhere."

Cheddi Jagan 1987 during a visit to Mongolia.